There have been many journeys in my life which I have expressed in my art over the last four decades.

I have been fortunate to travel to many parts of the world, some very remote, and feel the exhilaration of discovering diverse cultures.

I am also drawn to the natural power of the earth. I have been inside active volcanoes, rafted down big rivers, and trekked in the Andes and the Himalayas.

The most important journey for me was the experience of raising my only child, a daughter, Tali, who was tragically killed in a fire when she was a sophomore at U.C. Berkeley. Painting her spirit helped me to get through the pain and learn to endure. My hope is that this book will not only be enjoyed for the beauty of the images, but will also help others to understand that creativity has the power to heal and express all of our journeys filled with joy and life's challenges.—DINAH CROSS JAMES

Welcome to the world of Dinah Cross James: a realm of bold brushstrokes and explosive color, of intense passion and simple truth. On canvas, she wrestles with powerful emotions and the big questions of the universe: life and death, pain, fear, love, and the survival of humans and the earth. An intuitive painter, Cross James works primarily on abstracts, with an occasional break in style for lush floral still lifes or tender renderings of a cherished landscape. Here is a global expedition with the peoples of the planet as well as a personal exploration encompassing tears and laughter, tragedy and triumph—a journey of life, born of the spirit and shared from the heart.
